The National Main Street Program was developed in the 1970s through the National Trust for Historic Preservation. It was designed as a "grass roots" program, focusing on commercial district revitalization in both urban and rural downtown districts. The program utilizes an innovative methodology of historic preservation, combined with economic development.

The Leavenworth Main Street Program is part of this nationwide network. Revitalization efforts in downtown Leavenworth actually began in the mid-1980s when the Leavenworth Revitalization Committee was formed.

The Program is volunteer driven and depends upon the hard work and participation of a strong volunteer base. Leavenworth Main Street Program volunteers include downtown merchants and property owners, partnering organizations and groups, civic leaders, concerned citizens and a variety of other interested individuals.

For more information about member services and programs or to explore volunteer opportunities, please call or e-mail us.
